

Feed the

A homeless person resting in one of the worst parks in downtown eastside for drug abuse and violence.

Hungry

For the past year, members of the Jewish and Muslim communities of Vancouver have come together to provide nutritious monthly meals to over one hundred of the downtown eastside's homeless.

The program also enables people of these two faiths to meet, share and discuss their common purpose and responsibility towards those who are less fortunate.

All lunches take place at the First United Church:
320 East Hastings St, Vancouver
(corner of Hastings and Gore)

To find out more about this initiative and to volunteer and donate for the program, please contact Melanie at karmicangel@shaw.ca.
